Educational/Professional Background

Northwestern University, Evanston, IL – B.A. degree 1967

University of California, Hastings College of the Law, J.D. degree, 1991

Mediation Style

Pragmatic and common-sense approach geared to narrowing issues in dispute and seeking solutions. Generally flexible: facilitative so that parties can understand each other's position and can negotiate accordingly; evaluative when needs of parties are so indicated.

Mediation Experience

I have had considerable experience in substantive commercial, financial, investment and employment disputes. I have mediated well over 1000 disputes in the past 25 years ranging from breach of international distribution agreements to large venture capital and hedge fund investments. I have combined my extensive business and legal background to provide unique and practicable skills to facilitate settlements between parties. As a former currency and financial instruments trader at The CME Group's International Monetary Market in Chicago, I mediated very large monetary disputes among traders and institutional market participants. As an executive vice president of a foreign exchange arbitrage firm, I developed the business sense and pragmatism necessary to fashion satisfactory settlement options for disputing parties. As the host of a daily live financial television program in Chicago, I gained the reputation of a fair and impartial moderator who carefully evaluated the issues and built a consensus among disparate participants. As a judicial extern at the First District, California State Court of Appeal, I developed the skills to evaluate the legal implications of the dispute. As an educator at University of California, Hastings College of the Law, I wrote articles and made many presentations about the effective use of mediation and other ADR procedures. And as a full time neutral attorney arbitrator and mediator for the past 25 years, I have served as a dispute resolver in almost every area of the commerce including crypto-currency and bitcoin mining.
